

Airbus ends Safran collaboration on A320 eTaxi

December 04, 2019

Credit: Safran

Airbus has decided not to pursue the integration of Safran's electric taxiing system (eTaxi) for the A320 family, citing technical reasons and causing another setback for promoters of the fuel-saving technology. The system uses electric motors in the main landing gear, powered by electricity from the...

Subscription Required

This content requires a subscription to one of the Aviation Week Intelligence Network (AWIN) bundles.

Schedule a demo today to find out how you can access this content and similar content related to your area of the global aviation industry.

Already an AWIN subscriber? Login

Did you know? Aviation Week has won top honors multiple times in the Jesse H. Neal National Business Journalism Awards, the business-to-business media equivalent of the Pulitzer Prizes.

